

McCleery Golf Academy

Mike Vanderwolf - Director of Instruction

Mike is a recognized leader among teaching professionals in Canada. In 2000 he was named PGA of British Columbia Teacher of the Year and currently serves the PGA of Canada as a National Facilitator and Evaluator of its Teaching and Coaching Certification Program. Through such service Mike counsels, trains and provides feedback to hundreds of Golf Professionals annually.

Mike has helped many of the area's top professional golfers over the years in the development of their skills including multiple PGA of BC Champions Bryn Parry and Doug Morgan.

Mike works with golfers of all levels, experience and ages specializing in helping beginner and intermediate level golfers with their skills and love of the game.

Mike works closely with CN Future Links, Canada's National Junior Development Program in the creation and execution of programs at McCleery and in the development of hundreds of enthusiastic young golfers annually. He encourages participation and enjoyment of golf, leading to successful and rewarding competitive experiences and a pathway to college scholarships.

As a certified Trackman professional, Mike offers high-end radar technology as an analysis and training tool that helps accelerate learning while at the same time quantifying the why and the what, that leads to performance enhancement.

Mike continues in his quest to offer the highest quality instruction by continuing to train with the best teachers in the game. Recently Mike completed certification in "Swing Bio Dynamics" along with many notable Teaching Professionals from around the world including many former PGA and LPGA Tour Champions and their coaches.

Mike is available Monday through Saturday throughout the year and ready to help you with your game.
